PITTSBURG CAPTURES LAST GAME OF SERIES

Smoky Citvites Bunch Their Hits and Obtain a Good Lead in Early Innings.

PITTSBURG

Cardinals Open Up at Cincinnati To-Day-Sudhoff Probably on Slab.

Day-Sudhoff Probably on Slab.

Up to yesterday Captain Patsy Donovan's "dope" as to the number of games he expected to annex on the present trip worked out all right, but, by losing to Pittsburg, the team lets slip a good chance of rising to second place before coming home again. Philadelphia was saved from another possible defeat at the hands of the Seicettes by rain, and now stands a good fifteen points above the locais. However, in the next few days the relative standing of the top-notchers may be considerably changed, but Pittsburg will hardiy be in danger. Chicago opens up at the Smoky City to-day for a three-day stand and should rovo easy for the top-liners. On the other hand, the Cardinals should materially advance themselves by amexing two games from the Reds while Philadelphia's average may be cut down before the Bostonians finish with the Quakers.

It seems more a matter of hard luck than another select the tree of the control of the control

It is noised abroad that Jake Beckley, the terror of the Pirates, will not be a Red next year. Dame Rumor has it that the re-doubtable Jake will captain the American League team in Pittsburg, if a team is placed there.

After his showing yesterday, Doheny probably will be given another chance to sixn with Pittsburg, unless, in the mean-time he falls down badly.

Pittsburg, Pa., Aug. 7.-Again the Cardi-nals went down before the pitching of a left-hander and by losing, gave the Pirates' pennant aspirations another boost. The Manager Donovan called a council of war with the Quakers.

It seems more a matter of hard luck than anything else that the Cardinals dropped the last game. Doheny, for a man who has received his walking papers, twirled good ball, and Jack Powell, after only one day's rest, presented an admirable front. Nine hits were registered off each pitcher, but the Pirates had much better luck in negotiating the runs. Dan McGann again played a stellar part, somewhat similar to his performance in the last game with Chicago. McGann faced the ex-Glant curve dispenser four times, getting three safe raps. One of these would have been good for a three-bagger, and possibly for the entire circuit, if Heidrick had not waited to see where the sphere would drop. As it was, Dan raced around to second on the hit. The big first sackman crossed the pan with two of the Cardinals' three runs.

before the came, which, as each team had ne victory to its credit, was the deciding battle of the series, and asked his lieutenants for advice in the neuter of selecting e pitcher. The Advisory Board was in favor of Powell, who won the first game without exerting himself, so Manager Patsy handed the commission to Jack. The big twirler has been riding on the water wagon ever since his reinstatement, and was never in better shape, but the luck he had to-day as almost enough to drive him to stronger everage. After the fourth inning he got only one Pirate reached first base

Three of Pittsburg's first five hits were flukes. Manager Clarke took the Cardinals by surprise. They expected to face Pitcher ole, but when the local team lined up it the field Doheny, the south-paw, who re-ceived his ten days' notice of release to-day because, under the sixteen-men-limit rule, there was no room for him on the team, was on the rubber. He did so well against St. Louis, the best butting team in the league, that Pittsburg probably will try to sign him that Pittsburg probably will try to sign him at the expiration of his notice. Fine field-ling by Wagner, Ritchey and Clarke saved Dobeny at critical times, Ritchey stopped the sixth-inning spurt and Wagner's double play shortened the eighth inning, in which the Cardinals did some good stick work. Big Dan McGann was the only visitor who was not bethered by Doben's delivery and was not bothered by Doheny's delivery, and hit the ball for keeps, three times out of ur chances. His last hit counted only r a double, but was one of the longest ever nade on the grounds. Clarke, who chased into center field, made a remarkably good , and Heidrick, who was on second was afraid to move until he made sure at the ball could not be caught. McGann that the ball could not be caught, McGann therefore only gained the middle sack. Pittsburg scored four runs in the first inning on singles by Beaumont and Davis, Wagner's lucky infield tap, which was intended for the fence, but rolled only a few feet away from the plate, wild throws by Powell, and Jesse Burkett's muff. There was some excuse for the last misplay, as Burkett was going toward the center-field hieachers at a lively clip when he dropped the ball. A scratch infield single by Yeager, bohen's base on balls, Davis's single, which barely went over Padden's head, and a wild pitch, gave the Pirates two runs in the second. In the fourth they tallied three times on Yeager's double, Doheny's base on balls. Carke's sacrifice, Beaumont's triple balls. Clarke's sacrifice, Beaumont's triple and an out at first. That ended their rungetting, and the Cardinals went to work where they left off. Up to the sixth the men from Missouri

Up to the sixth the men from Missouri could only show three singles, but in the sixth Dick Padden led off with a hit that Ritchey stopped back of second but, according to Tom Brown, did not get to first in time. Heldrick then knocked a long fly to Fred Clarke. McGann singled to center, but Beaumont held Padden at second, and when Dick tried to move up to third on Donovan's bunt he found Leach waiting for him with the ball. Wallace spoiled the Pirates' plans for a shut-out by hitting sharply to center, however, scoring McGann from second.

After two were out in the seventh Burk.

charply to center, however, scoring Mc-Gann from second.

After two were out in the seventh, Burkett hit for two bases, but was left at second. "Remember the eighth," shouted Manager Donovan, when Heidrick was hit by a pitched ball, and McGann doubled in the round that was marked by the great spirt on Menday. Donovan himself hit to Leach, who obligingly threw over Bransfield's head, allowing Heidrick and McGann to score. The spectators were becoming uneasy, and the members of the Anvil Chorus, who have been giving daily concerts ever since the American League schemers paid this city a visit, began tuning up. Wagner turned the tide in Doheny's favor again, by digging up Rhody Wallace's grounder back of second, touching the bag chead of Donovan and throwing to first for a double play. The remaining plays were tame and did not affect the result. The score: PITTSBURG.

capitulation of Series Shows That ocals Exceeded in Number of Hits. In the series just unished with Pittsburg the Cardinals chased one more run over the plate than the Pirates, but with the uncertainties of baseball were able to take but one of the games. Burkett, Padden and McGann have a total each of six hits for McGann have a total each of six hits for the series, while none of the Pirates show up with more than five. The Cardinals ran six ahead of the topliners in the number of hits, but the latter used their safeties to better advantage, the hits of the locals being more or less scattered.

The never-to-be-forgotten eighth inning in Monday's game did much to swell the averages of the Donovanites, and at the same time took some ciphers out of the error column of the Pirates. Nine errors are charged against Pittsburg for the series, four of which are laid to Honus Wagner, who made three of them in the first game. The eighth laning seems to be popular with the Cardinals. It witnessed the piling up of eleven runs Monday, and again a rally my setterday's game which brought two runs over the pan.

The first inning seems to be the luck heat for the Pirates, who registered ten runs of thein total of twenty-three in the first rounds of the three games. In the previous series the Pirates had a total of nine first-inning runs, six of which were recorded in the opening game at League Park.

A recapitulation of the games of the series just finished, showing the work of each SKETCH OF PRESIDENT OF player, follows: POLICE RELIEF ASSOCIATION.

LIEUTENANT PATRICK MCKENNA. President of the Police Relief Association.

Lieutenant Patrick McKenna of the I tion was organized to afford assistance to Fourth Police District, who was unan-imously elected by the Executive Commit-tee of the Police Relief Association to the tee of the Police Relief Association to the presidency of the association, has been regarded ever since his first connection with the force in 1880 as one of the coolest headed men in the department. It was for that reason and for his former experience in business that he was chosen to manage the affairs of the association and put it on a paying basis.

tion was organized to afford assistance to officers who become ill, disabled, or incapacitated. Every member of the police force is also a member of this association, and, according to the terms of the reorganization last August, he must be a member in good standing or go before the Police Reard under charge preferred by the Car-the affairs of the association and put it on a paying basis.

Lieutenant McKenna was a successful contractor before his connection with the Police Department, which he was induced to enter by his brother Frank, who is a special officer in the Central District. He special officer in the Central District. He maintained a name for himself by cleaning out Hop Alley and reducing it to a condition of order which it has almost ever since maintained. He was made a Leutenant two years ago, and assigned to duty in the Fourth District, with headquarters at Seventh and Carr streets.

As president of the Police Relief Association Contractor before his connection with the about $11.00. Though several officers have died within the last year, $2.000 going to the family of each, the original indebtedness has steadily decreased in spite of the cutting off of income from officers witness fees, which formerly went into the treasury of the association.

On the Execution

As president of the Police Relief Association Lieutenant McKenna will have much the same duties as those of the manager of a mutual benefit insurance company. But, buildes the death benefit, the relief association which should be pursued by the association.

The Reds are gaining in strength and will be prepared to give the locals some good arguments in the coming five games—two at Cincinnant, beginning to-day, and three at League Park. Helny Peitz is again cavorting about the third corner, and T. mmy Corcoran, after a long absence, seems about ready to get back in the game. It is not unlikely that he will take a hand in the present series. Harry Steinfeldt is rapidly recovering and expects to get in the game soon. The infield of the Reds will be much strengthened by the addition of these nen. The Reds are still very weak in their pitching department, and until they get rid of some of the deadwood which drifted over from the wreck of the Indianapolis team, will still be seriously handicapped.

The Cardinals returned Saturday and play a series of three sames at League Park with Cincinnatt, including a Sunday game. Tuesday and Wednesday are open dates, and then come the Remnants. Beginning August 19, the Pirates will be seen at League Park four successive days, and another large turnout is expected. August 23 the locals again leave town for their first tour of the Western cities, having games scheduled with Chicago, Pittsburg and Cincinnati.

Umpire Manassau of the American League Umpire Manassau of the American League has been coming in for his full share of criticism from the players, and yesterday's mix-up at Cleveland marked what should be the climas. No matter what sort of an umpire Manassau may be, the fact remains that he is extremely disliked by the majority of the players in the American League, and if no one is disciplined for yesterday's fight, umpire assaulting may become a side diversion of the players. Too much laxity has been the rule, and umpires in the American League have been the sufferers. Umpire Haskeil had the mistortune Boston 10—4, Baltimore 5—10.

Baltimore, Aug. 7.—The Baltimore and Boston teams broke even in a double-beader here to-day. Both pitchers were hit hard in the first game, and poor base running by the locals gave the contest to the visitors. The quality of the work on bases may be judged from the fact that with but two on bases Boston made a triple play on an infield bounder. The second game went to Baltimore in the sixth inning, when the Beston team went to pieces. Attendance, 4.77. Soores:

Umpire Haskeil had the misfortune to anger First Baseman Hart of Baitimore and paid the penalty which the players are in the habit of administering to umpires. If such performances continue, the American League umpires will be compelled to don coats of mail and iron masks before each game or have a special guard of police about them when rendering decisions.

The Cardinals have been unfortunate in that they have been deprived of the services of Eddie Murphy in the recent games abroad. Murphy is looked upon by many fans as the best twirler on Donovan's staff, and certain it is that he has had a successful season. Could he have been used at Pittsburg yesterday the Cardinals would have stood a better chance of barging the third game than with Powell. The latter cannot be expected to pitch winning ball every other day. For some reason Sudhoff was left out of the reckoning, and for all the good Wicker did, he might as well have been left at home.

The Donovanites should enter the fray to. The Donovanites should enter the fray to-day well equipped for victory. With all the heavy hitters back in the game. Cin-cinnati's minor league pitchers should be slugged all over the field. It is Sudhoff's turn on the rubber, unless Murphy's hand has recovered from its collision with Jack O'Connor's visage. Nichols may do the receiving, as Ryan has been worked stead-ily of late.
